

Intro (Settings, Characters)

---

The year is 402,587. The continents collided over a millennium ago. The collision sent dust and volcanic ash into the atmosphere. It clouded up and became extremely cold. many animals dug under ground and made their own life underground, while the humans were dying on the surface. The animals, already very humanoid, rapidly evolved into even more humanoid creatures. When the dust settled, they came back to the surface to find a frozen waste land. With their new intelligence the animals used a shield generator made by humans as a defense to protect them from the cold. Thus Utopia was born.

Well all the character are put in a description here:

Kyle Limino: A short-tempered Tasmanian devil which has, since the beginning of his life, looked for revenge of the great collision which killed his parents. He is the Main Enemy in Battle for the World.

Malcolm Leforce: A small uneducated squirrel, always getting into trouble with his gang. He is the Main protagonist in Battle for the World.

James Morose: The Well-Known mayor of Utopia. You will learn more about him on the game...

Prologues(1-3)

---

Kyle Limino woke up today with a goal. As newly elected Mayor of Antarticka, he was not well known. Soon that was going to change. Soon...

Malcolm Leferce wasn't happy waking up at 5 pm North Am-Rika Standard time, but that was his punishment for grafting the Galliando mine, again. Boot Camp. He had no idea that that gangish act with his friends would change his life forever...

Limino, with his new found wealth and power, commissioned a new energy project: a tower that will harness the power of the Galliando still in the air from the Great Collision.

Malcolm, still in boot camp got a holo-call from his friends, saying that they would graffiti the mines again. Malcolm had a bad feeling about it, but said nothing.

President Morose loved mining and was disgraced when a Leferce kid and his gang sprayed graffiti on the mines. Unfortunately He could only catch Leferce.

Galliando Can Stick To People...

Limino's tower, near completion, if activated in it's current state, could ignite the Galliando in the air and cause the death of all who work near Galliando. Limino decided that that is what should happen. He came into the half completed tower's control room and approached the main controls... Malcolm finally decided to warn his friends about the bad feeling, so he escaped boot camp and took a Hover-cab to North Am-Rika.

When he got to the mines, he saw his friends vandalizing the mines. He approached them and was about to say something when... Limino activated the tower and then used a teleport cab to escape. Malcolm looked up at the tower and saw a blinding flash from the tower.

Prologues (ALL)

By: D. Lozano

Edited By: Guillermo Angeris

Then a massive force pushed back against him and knocked him on the ground.

He opened his eyes and saw his friends running around on flames, then came another blinding flash that knocked Malcolm out.

Conclusions(1-3)

---

Kyle Limino looked upon the destruction through his Holo-TV

He saw the capital of Utopia in flames. He got a call from his secretary. She told him that with all the deaths, he had been catapulted to presidency. Just as he wanted

Malcolm woke up in pain. He saw a doctor in front of him, in a hospital he had never been in.

“Where am I?” he asked the doctor.

“In a hospital in South Am-Rica. We are going to ask you what you remember, OK?”

“Well, I was going to say something to my friends when I heard a large blast and saw a blinding flash. When I finally saw again, I looked for my friends, but before I could find them, I saw another blast. This time it pushed me back and I hit the ground. I opened my eyes and saw one of my friends on flames, then... it all went blank.” “I see. Well I can tell you what the blasts were: the first one was Limino tower igniting the Galliando in the air. The second one was the mines exploding...”

“The blast altered your genes.”

Malcolm realized why he did not see his friends during the blast. They were dead. Normally he would grieve, but he caught a news coverage about a Kyle Limino who rose to power after the bang. Every one seemed to believe that he was not responsible. Except Malcolm. How couldn't he be responsible? It was his tower that exploded. Malcolm called the police from the hospital. They said if the president does anything suspicious, they would ban him to the Outer Realm- The place beyond the shield of Utopia. The icy cold.

Limino was preparing a speech. He would blame it all on a saboteur. He would trick them all. Soon he would be Potentate of Utopia.

Prologues (ALL)

By: D. Lozano

Edited By: Guillermo Angeris

Kyle Limino announced to the Utopian Senate that he would eliminate government control over Utopia. Starting in a few days, he will be Potentate and nothing will stand in his way.

Malcolm watched the new Supreme Potentate Limino make his announcement. He was expecting a call from the police. When it finally came, it was not what he expected.

"Come to the hover-car outside. We're going to banish him and we want you to watch"

Malcolm got in and his driver took him to the edge. The Edge was the border of the shield.

Kyle was told to go to the Edge to witness a banishing. Little did he know that HE was the one being banished.

Malcolm had a very unwanted job. He was the one to push Kyle out of the shield.

As Kyle arrived at the Edge, police dogs surrounded the hover car. Kyle was quickly handcuffed and was taken to the door of the shield. There he saw an otter, who looked very nervous. Kyle memorized his face.

Malcolm was taken to meet face to face with Kyle Limino. He said to him, "I am Malcolm Leferce! You killed my friends, you are a murderous creature, and this must be done" Malcolm pushed Kyle as hard as he could out the shield. The guards closed the shield, and Malcolm felt bad about ending a life.

Kyle, handcuffed and freezing, collapsed. It had been so perfect, but it was all lost. He heard footsteps approaching. He looked up and saw a rabbit clad in battle armor...

The continuation (A Hare's Breath) will come later, so while that you might want to check the site!